Winston Churchill

Possible responses:

1. De Gaulle and Churchill were both dedicated to protecting the power of their countries. Both, too, were difficult characters whose outspoken views often brought them into conflict with political rivals. Both rose to prominence when their nations faced serious crises but were better as wartime than peacetime leaders.

2. Churchill’s inspiring speeches helped revive British spirits.

3. While Churchill was an able war leader, the British people would not necessarily want his policies in time of peace. Peace raises different problems, and they apparently did not like the solutions he proposed.